Tiffany is an Associate in the firm's Litigation Group, practicing from the Portland office. She counsels clients on a broad array of litigation-related issues, including researching, drafting, and filing of pleadings, motions, appeals, and other documents; collecting evidence; managing discovery materials; and other overall aspects of trial preparation.

Tiffany is a graduate of Chicago-Kent College Law School and Stetson University. While in law school, Tiffany held externships at Animal Outlook in Washington, D.C., and in the office of the Hon. Eve R. Reilly of the Circuit Court of Cook County Chancery Division in Chicago, and was a law clerk at a notable law firm in Chicago. She joins Preti Flaherty following two years as a staff attorney at the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit.

Tiffany lives in Portland with her husband and their rescue dog, Clifford.
